Students should read for a minimum of 10 minutes each night as part of their regular homework time. Elementary students are encouraged to participate in Dyad Reading (details can be found on website).

Parents should teach their children that if they do not finish their daily work in class, that those unfinished assignments need to be completed in addition to the actual homework time. Therefore, reports, projects, and unfinished daily work could account for some students spending more than the maximum amount of time stated. Student punctuality and responsibility will ensure that this does not happen.

If your student is working diligently and is unable to finish homework in the maximum time, please talk to their teacher.

* Special projects may take more "out of classroom" time
